Friday, June 1. 1716.

From the Amst. Cour. and Gaz. dated June 2.

Berlin, May 26.

As soon as his Majesty came back from his Visit to the Czar at Stettin, he went to Charlottenburg, where the Court still are. The King is determined to take a Journey to Cleves this Summer, but the Time is not yet fixed: The Queen goes along with his Majesty as far as Hanover. A Courier from the King of Poland is this Day arrived here.

Hamburg, May 26. The Count de Mersch, the Emperour's Minister, is gone from Brunswick to meet the Czar, to desire him in the Name of his Imperial Majesty, to withdraw his Troops from Mecklenburg, where they give great Uneasiness to the Inhabitants. The Swedish Partizans daily give out Stories of their King's Success in Norway; and altho' it is known that he was forced to withdraw to his Frontiers, yet his Success in that Retreat, without being annoyed by the Danes, has given Rise to a Story, as if there had been an Action to the Disadvantage of the Danes. This does not seem to have the least Truth in it; but in regard that the Letters from Copenhagen say there is no News from Norway, and we know at the same Time that they have received Advices from thence, the People of Speculation give themselves Leave to believe that the King of Sweden's Affairs there are not so bad as the Danes represent them.

From the Leiden Gaz. and Amst. Cour. June 2.

Frankfurt, May 27. The Levies for the Service of the Emperour and the Venetians, go on with Success. There is talk of a Marriage between Prince Ernest Augustus of Hanover, Bishop of Osnabrug, and Brother to the King of Great Britain, and the Princess of Nassau, Mother to the young Prince and Stadtholder of Friseland; but this needs Confirmation. An Express from the British Resident, M. d' Ayrolles, coming from Geneva, is passed by here, to carry Advice to his Court (as tis said) that the Cantons of Zurich and Bern, cannot accept of any Foreign Mediation, upon their Differences with the Abbot of St. Gall; but that they will endeavour to accommodate that Matter among themselves, in Case that Prelate and the Catholick Cantons will listen to reasonable Terms.

From the Hague Courant, dated June 3.

Brussels, June 1. Two Days ago the Count de Coningheck, with the Countess his Spouse, went to take a Turn to Namur, to visit that Fortress; and his Excellency is expected back this Day or to Morrow. The Bishop of Ghent arrived here this Evening from Vienna.

Hague, June 2. The States of Holland in their late Assembly, could not come to a Conclusion in the Affair of the Repartition of the Troops that belong to North-Holland, altho' they were willing for the Relief of that Part of the Province, to put part of those Troops upon the Charge of South-Holland: But the City of Amsterdam demand, that North-Holland shall at the same time give Assurances that they will regularly pay the small Portion that is left upon them, and that they will always keep them compleat; so that the further Consideration of that Matter is referred to next Session. The Deputies of the Province of Guelderland, were last Week in Conference with those of the Council of State, concerning the Alteration of Garrisons, and the Repartition of Troops, whereof they would have a larger Number lodged in their District than they now have; the Provinces of Zeland, Overyssele and Groninguen, having before made the like Instances. To this Purpose, the States of Guelderland have already written Letters to the States General, wherein they demand, that by Provision, two Regiments that are upon their Repartition, be sent to them, or else they would supercede the Orders for the march of those Regiments that are in Garrison in their District, and are intended to be sent to other Provinces; and that they would even think of other Methods to obtain what they demand. They were immediately answered, that the List for the Cavalry being already fixed, and the Patents dispatched to them, no Alteration could be made therein; and as for the Infantry, a larger Number is already assigned to them than they have ever had: The States General telling them at the same time, that there is no pressing Necessity for so many Troops in their Province, and promise them that in Case of Need, they shall be assisted with all the Forces of the State.

London, June 1.

Extract of a Letter by last Post.

Avignon, May 26. We are mighty quiet here; and upon the Exhortations of Dr. Lesley, the great People submit with a wonderful Resignation to their present Misfortunes. The Pretender's Retinue increases every Day; and I am assured that before this Week ends there will be about 30 Lords, but none English except the late Duke of Ormond.
